

Opinions as to the Results of the Recent Tidal Wave and Cyclonic Disturbances— "What Will the Harvest Be?"

TARIFF PICTURES.

From 1880 to 1890 average earnings of the employees in Cincinnati's manufacturing establishments grew from $350 per annum to $1,000. The amount disbursed in wages in the same lines in Cincinnati in the meantime from $19,533,729 to $42,947,849.

Here is the program of the South for the distribution of Cabinet officers, as outlined by a Democratic journal: "The South will ask for the Postoffice Department, the Interior Department and the post of Attorney-General. The Bourbons are clearly determined to get there this time. Oh, for a breath of Jeffersonian simplicity in these days of 'sothern' aristocracy and Northern millionaires!"

The Republican party of New York, says The Press, has not for many years been in better condition than to-day. Representing imperishable principles, it is freed from the burden of public offices. Neither in state nor in Nation has the Republican party any patronage to distribute, or official emolument to offer as an inducement to Republican fillety or a temptation to Democratic treachery. The Republican party is also clear of the driftwood which, while it seemed to add to the size of the party, was a positive obstruction to its progress and a serious drain upon its vitality. It is sometimes good fortune to be unfortunate, if only to ascertain who are real and who are pretended loyalists, and to be enabled to divide the genuine from the dross.

It is all the more binding upon Republicans, therefore, to prove by their course and example that the spirit of the party is firm, its courage unshaken and its fidelity to American principles and interests as true and steadfast as ever. There should be no trading, no exchange of votes, no yielding of the right to the expedient. The Democratic factions are certain to make an exhibition of themselves that will alienate the better sentiment of the community and lead thousands of thoughtful and intelligent Democrats to look elsewhere for relief. The Republican party should so conduct itself that when the people turn in disgust from the spectacles of Democratic littleness and meanness, corruption, dissension and hypocrisy, they will find the Republican party unshamed by Democratic mud and clear of Democratic entanglements, strong in organization and sound and unequivocal in principle.

The Democrats have not even had a love feast after their victory. They have begun their Kilkenny cat controversy over the spoils while yet the spoils are in the distance. They are fighting each other with a vigor more earnest than they ever showed in fighting the Republicans, and they are sowing a crop of mutual hate and discord that is bound to produce an abundant harvest in coming contests in Nation, state and municipality. To the people of the country the spectacle presented by the Democracy is at once amusing and enlightening. It is also humiliating when it is remembered that to such a party the National administration is intrusted for the coming Presidential term.

Meantime the more, bitter the quarrels and the more offensive the course of the Democracy, the more it is incumbent on Republicans to hold aloof from Democratic bargains and associations, to nominate the best men for office and to present to the people of the state an example that will teach a more impressive lesson in defeat than could not have been taught in victory.

A New Dispensation. The People's Building Association, desiring to accommodate their friends and the public generally, have decided to keep their books open at all times for the sale of stock. Persons wishing to take stock will not have to wait for a series to open, nor will they have to pay in any back dues. Subscriptions will be taken any day at the office of the Association at the price of eighty cents per share. The Directors hope that this arrangement will largely increase the number of their stockholders. If you wish to take any stock at any time call on any of the officers, who will gladly explain the working of the Association under the new dispensation.

A Little Boy was seen on West Second street, not over ten years of age, standing in the biting air, with no fastenings on his ragged jacket, his shirt open at the throat, with no stockings; on and his hands were chapped from the cold that the blood was coming from them. And yet hundreds of thousands of dollars go from this country every year to the wilds of Africa and Asia in the name of Foreign Missions. Verily, charity begins a long way from home.
